

Marketing Officer

for ARK, award-winning social innovator full-time, permanent; based remotely

We want a badass who wants to make an impact working with rural communities towards food security and self-sustainability

As ARK's Marketing Officer, you will:

- sharpen your strategic thinking and fuel your creativity as you develop the best form of engagements, pitch and partnership structures between ARK and champions
- execute on marketing campaigns, PR strategies, and help grow the ARK's brand and visibility; launch events that are fun, unforgettable, and impactful
- help achieve revenue targets that will fuel ARK's growth and mission. You will help develop decks and proposals, and secure partnerships
- engage with a spectrum of people, as you work with ARK's own global network from Manila to NYC who will help you grow and further your dreams

You are fit for this role if you

- are positive, high energy, enjoy connecting with people, and driven by curiosity
- are resourceful, a team-player, and enjoy win-win partnerships.
- You are a natural creative; you love stories of impact. You are an idea machine.
- are organized and determined. You are always on top of things.
- have around 3 to 6+ years of relevant experience, any industry; must be super awesome if less--what we value is having demonstrated the clear ability to: manage projects and timelines; engage and build relationships with people; and hustle and execute on marketing

Bonus points if you

- have skills in any of the following: graphic design; getting featured in events and news; social media engagement skills
- are fluent in Bisaya or other languages; better-than-okay Tagalog

ARK solves with rural communities to create a path to secure their food, kids' schooling and a sustainable future. Our claim to fame is our innovative P2.50 school lunch, the world's first & only self-sustaining school lunch. As the pandemic closed down schools and made communities at-risk for hunger and strife, ARK pivoted and created Feed Back - a neighborhood vegetable exchange. This program enables communities to source their food from within and generate excess to sell to nearby villages and towns. Join ARK at the leading edge of social impact: believe in our partners, create markets, and solve for true sustainability and a clear exit.
